RECIPROCITY.

CANADA AND UNITED STATES.

REPRESENTATIVES ENDORSE.

ENTHUSIASM AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.

The United States House of Representatives has passed the reciprocity agreement by 221 votes to 92.

The Democrats solidly favoured the Bill, while the Republican vote was split.

President Taft has caused it to be known that an extra session of congress will be called if the Senate is obdurate.

It is impossible to forecast the decision of the Senate.

Members of the House of Representatives fought bitterly. Democrats welcomed Mr. Taft as a lost sheep to their fold.

Every method was adopted to delay the passage of the Bill. The Speaker, Mr. Cannon, who is a bitter opponent of Reciprocity, left the chair, calling on a leading Democrat, Mr. James, of Kentucky, to occupy it.

The majority for the agreement was mainly composed of Democrats. Insurgent Republicans, as well as regular Republicans, voted against the bill.

ABSORPTION OF CANADA.

AN INJUDICIOUS UTTERANCE.

CLAIMED TO BE A JOKE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.

During the debate in the House of Representatives on the reciprocity proposals, Mr. Champ Clark, a leader of the Democrats, said he favoured the agreement because he hoped to see the day when the American flag would wave over every square foot of North America.

There was great cheering when Mr. Champ Clark said that the time was coming when Great Britain would gladly yield her possessions in North America to the United States.

Feb. 16.

Mr. Clark now explains that his reference to the annexation of Canada was merely the humorous expression of an individual opinion.

Mr. Clark's friends assert that he did mean anything except in a very jocular way.

President Taft has promptly denied that any political significance attaches to reciprocity.

CANADIAN VIEWS.

"THE REAL MEANING."

OTTAWA, Feb. 16.

Canadian Conservatives declare that the real meaning of the United States has been made clear by Mr. Clark.

The Prime Minister, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, replying to a question in the House of Commons, said he refused to treat Mr. Clark's speech seriously.

CANADIAN DEBATE.

EX-MINISTER'S ATTACK.

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.

In the Canadian House of Commons Mr. G. E. Foster, ex-Minister of Finance (Conservative), attacked the reciprocity agreement, which he said, would tend to decrease Canadian influence throughout the Dominion.

The entry of the United States, he said, was something to be feared later.

British opposition, he contended, was certain to suffer heavily. Of 102 votes cast under the reciprocity proposals, 74 were given to the anti-reciprocity side, 26 voted out preference completely.

Mr. Foster alleged that Mr. Asquith had received inaccurate information regarding the basis of reciprocity.

EFFECT ON BRITISH PREFERENCE.

CANADIAN PRESS OPINION.

LONDON, Feb. 16.

During the debate on the reciprocity agreement in the Canadian House of Commons, the speakers in support of the Government emphasised the slight effect the proposed tariff changes would have on British preference.

"THE FATE OF THE EMPIRE."

THE TRANSVAAL EXAMPLE.

BERLIN, Feb. 16.

In the debate in the Reichstag on the naval estimates several socialist members accused the Krupp family, owners of the great steel works at Essen, of making £23,400,000 clear profit during the last three years by "squeezing the whole district like a lemon."

They contended that 40 per cent. of the workmen's dwellings at Essen were in a disgraceful condition.

Recently reported statement of Mr. Bourassa, leader of the Quebec Nationalists, that the Imperial Government had encouraged Canada to make the agreement with the United States.

Mr. Asquith also denied that Mr. James Bryce, British Ambassador at Washington, had actively helped in the promotion of the agreement.

RAILWAY MAGNATE'S DENIAL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.

Mr. James Hill, a railway magnate, criticised the report that he aided the farmers of Western Canada in their reciprocity campaign.

He says that he favours reciprocity, but he did not give any money to further the campaign of the farmers.

THE PRIME MINISTER REPLIED.

Lord Hugh Cecil seconded the amendment. He said that many of the Liberals did not favour the sort of Home Rule Mr. J. E. Redmond wanted. Unless Imperial supremacy meant interference with decisions about which the Irish people held strong convictions, it was a matter mainly of words. Ireland by her representation in the House of Commons had self-government, therefore any analogy with the government of the various Acts, and would not be affected by the new arrangement.

Home Rule would be subversive of the unity of the kingdom and of the well-being of all its parts.

THE RETROGRADE MOVEMENT.

Mr. Malcolm, in moving his amendment, criticised Ministers for the varying views appealing for funds for the victims of famine in China.

The express from Nogent to Paris then ran into the wreckage, but the engine only was derailed.

Twenty people were killed. Twenty bodies have been recovered. Sixty passengers were injured, and seven were included in a few minutes by the explosion of a gas tank.

The driver of the express failed to see the signals owing to the wind blowing smoke in his eyes.

KRUPPS CRITICISED.

SOCIALIST ALLEGATIONS.

MINISTERIAL DEFENCE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.

Mr. J. E. Redmond, leader of the Irish party, said that the people of Ireland never regarded Mr. Asquith's declaration as obscure. He accepted the Prime Minister's definition of Home Rule, which the speaker honestly believed meant a constitutional settlement.

He added: "We admit and accept an Imperial supremacy, which ought to put down any oppression of Protestants." There might, he said, be fewer Irish representatives at the elections in January, 1910, with the full knowledge that if the Government succeeded in the Veto the first task it would undertake would be the granting of Home Rule. (Ministerial and Nationalist cheer.)

THE TRUST NOT JUSTIFIED.

Mr. W. H. Long, ex-Chief Secretary for Ireland (Unionist), said that it was not the first time that Mr. Redmond had promised fair play to the minority, but their experiences under the Local Government Act had not justified their trust in Home Rule. That act, he said, was a complete failure.

Mr. Redmond concluded with the words: "As a pacified South Africa was the greatest glory of King Edward's reign, so the reign of King George will be made more glorious by a friendly and reconciled Ireland."

THE TRUE IMPERIALISM.

DEBATE IN THE COMMONS.

VERY DEFINITE STATEMENTS.

LONDON, Feb. 15.

In the House of Commons last night Mr. Malcolm (Unionist) moved his amendment to the Address in Reply, namely—

"All effective debate on the vote of the House of Lords has been seriously hampered by the obscure and conflicting declarations of Ministers relating to Home Rule, which has been openly avowed to be one of the main reasons for altering the Constitution. Home Rule would be subversive of the unity of the kingdom and of the well-being of all its parts."
